BIG IRISH AMBUSH.

POLICE SUFFER HEAVY CASUALTIES IN FIERCE COMBAT.

WOUNDED ABANDONED.

LONDON, February 25.

What is unofficially described as the biggest ambush in Ireland up to the present occurred at Coolevokig near Macroom in mid-Co. L., entailing serious losses to the Government forces. It is reported that fourteen men were killed. Three hundred Sinn Feiners entrenched in the hills under cover of rocks attacked seventy auxiliary police in lorries commanded by Major Grant, who with three police, is reported to have been shot dead. After a fierce combat lasting hours, the police were apparently driven back. They eventually carried off some of their wounded but were compelled to leave ten men behind who were presumed to be dead. It is believed that the Sinn Feiners, who were not dislodged, suffered heavily. Strong Government reinforcements supported by an aeroplane, have proceeded to the spot.

MINE WAGES DEADLOCK.

DISPUTE OVER NATIONAL WAGE SYSTEM.

OUTLOOK GLOOMY.

LONDON, February 25.

Negotiations as regards the wage scheme between the miners and mine owners were resumed but adjourned without prospect of agreement. The miners' secretary, Mr. Frank Hodges, says that the outlook is very gloomy. It is understood that the deadlock has arisen over the national wage system and the unifying of the industry. The miners advocate national in contradistinction to district wages. The owners oppose pooling profits and assert that unification of wages would convert the industry from a trade into a charitable institution. The Miners' Executive will consider the situation next week.

MANDATE RIGHTS.

AMERICA AND THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

LONDON, February 25.

Although the League's reply to America's note has not yet been completed, the Liberator learns that the Council declares its preparedness to hear America's observation stated at the next session in May, meanwhile postponing decision. The Council of the League has decided to create a special temporary committee, including Labour, to examine the question of world-wide reduction in armaments.

AUSTRALIAN SEAMEN'S STRIKE ENDED.

MELBOURNE, February 25.

The seamen's strike has ended. The ships laid up will be recommissioned at the earliest moment.

PACIFIC NAVAL DEFENCE.

LONDON, February 25.

The meeting of the Commanders-in-Chief of the China, East Indies, and Australian Station to consider measures for the naval defence of the Pacific is to take place at Penang, not at Singapore, and will probably begin on March 8.

AMERICAN NAVAL CONSTRUCTION.

WASHINGTON, February 25.

President-elect Harding has notified the Senate that he desires adequate naval appropriations for continuance of the present building programme without material reductions.

In response to inquiries, Mr. Harding declared that he was in complete sympathy with the Senate naval committee in increasing the naval estimates voted by the House of Representatives.

OUR MIDDLE EAST AFFAIRS.

LONDON, February 25.

The Colonial Office takes over the affairs of the Middle East on March 1. A small department of fifteen experts is temporarily being formed to deal with Palestine, Mesopotamia, Aden, and other Arab areas within the British sphere of influence.

STARVING CHINA.

AMERICAN FARMERS' GENEROUS GIFT.

WASHINGTON, February 25.

The Senate has voted $500,000 to defray the cost of transporting across the Pacific the grain presented by American farmers for the relief of starving China.

ANTI-TRUST LAW PROSECUTION.

INDIANAPOLIS, February 26.

The Federal grand jury has indicted 227 mine owners and miners charged under the Anti-Trust Law with conspiracy to restrain trade. The accused include a number of business men and labour representatives who were indicted for a similar offence last year.

Promulgated sentence by the Consistory Court deprives Archdeacon Wakeford of all promotion and emoluments relating to his office.

14,000 TON MOTOR SHIP.

"GLENAPP" DUE HERE.

INTERESTING VESSEL DESCRIBED.

The arrival of the Glen Line motor ship "Glenapp" which is due in the harbour to-morrow at daylight, will again draw local attention to the progress now being made in the construction of motor ships, a progress so steady that one firm alone can turn out a 14,000 ton vessel regularly every two or three months, equipped with machinery of 6,400 h.p. A ship carrying this amount of cargo is a very big vessel indeed, and there is probably not more than 6 per cent. of the tonnage afloat represented by craft of larger size. In other words, the Diesel engine, as it now stands, can cater for at least 95 per cent. of the world's shipping.

The motor ship "Glenapp," the second of six similar vessels forming part of the Glen Line motor ship programme, was completed in December.

The "Glenapp" and the "Glenogle," which also called at Hongkong (the first ships of the class) are the largest motor craft afloat, except the "Zoppot." The following details of dimensions and other particulars of the "Glenapp" are given in the Motor Ship for January.

Length overall, 502 ft.; beam moulded, 62 ft. 3 ins.; gross registered tonnage, 9,150 tons; deadweight capacity, 14,000 tons; speed loaded, 12½ knots; machinery installation, 6,400 h.p.; fuel consumption, 18-20 tons per day.

It will be remembered that "Glenapp" was the name given to a motor ship built during the war by Harland and Wolff, originally intended for the East Asiatic Co., but taken over by the British Government and run by the Glen Line. She was largely used for transporting troops from America to France. The "Glenapp" was handed back to the East Asiatic Co., sold to the Elder Dempster Co., and is now being converted to a passenger liner for the Liverpool West Coast trade, having been renamed the "Alba." The new vessel for the Glen Line has, therefore, been given the old name.

The "Glenapp" is identical in all respects with "Glenogle," which was fully described in the China Mail so that a further technical description need not be given. It may be mentioned, however, that each of the eight-cylinder engines in the "Glenogle" develops 3,200 h.p. and has cylinders 740 mm. diameter and 1,150 mm. stroke, the full power being developed at 115 r.p.m. The auxiliary machinery is wholly electrically operated, and there are four 100 kw. electric generating sets supplying power for the purpose. The main engines drive their own compressors for injection air, and two auxiliary air compressors are coupled to electric motors of 150 h.p. each, these being put into operation when manoeuvring is required. The winches are electrically operated, the steering gear is of the electrical type, and a donkey boiler is installed for heating purposes and one or two auxiliary services. This is of the Cochran type.

It will be remembered that in the last motor ship turned out by Harland and Wolff the electric system of reversing was employed. This has not been used on the "Glenapp" or any of the Glen liners, as the air reverse is still the standard method. The fuel consumption of the "Glenapp," based upon results achieved from the "Glenogle," will be in the neighbourhood of 18-20 tons per day, against about 45 tons of oil fuel on a corresponding oil-fired steamer, or 75-80 tons of coal on a steamer fitted with coal-fired boilers. It is only necessary to say that on the Eastern run, on which the "Glenapp" will be placed, the average price of Welsh coal is considerably more than half the cost of Diesel engine fuel to indicate what very large savings will be effected by this vessel.

The "Glenapp" which is classed 100 A1 at Lloyd's, has three complete decks, and is fitted with poop, bridge, and forecastle. There are eight watertight bulkheads, and the double bottom and space between the tunnels are fitted for the carriage of oil fuel. The steering gear, windlass, and the 16 cargo winches are all electrically driven, and there are 36 cargo derricks suitable for dealing with weights up to 7 tons, also two derricks for dealing with weights up to 40 tons. There are six cargo holds, one of which can be used as a deep-water ballast tank. In addition to the accommodation for officers, engineers and crew, there is first class accommodation for 12 passengers, which includes a large saloon, smoking room, &c., and the vessel is fitted with wireless telegraphy. The "Glenapp" is intended for the Eastern trade of the Glen Line, and it is confidently anticipated she will maintain the very favourable impression already made by the motor ships of this well known line.

CHILDREN'S CORNER.

My dear Children,
I have written such a long story about fairy shops that I have had to divide it up into two parts, so look for the rest of it in next week's Corner.Your loving,
PETER PAN.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Arthur White. I was glad to have your nice long letter and to hear that you liked your prize, and I am pleased too to hear that you will write often.

FAIRY SHOPS.

"Half a pound of ginger jam
please," said a small voice by Billy's ear.Billy, who had been lying on the grass nearly asleep, jumped up and cried out, "What do you want?
Who are you? and where are you anyway?"Then he saw a tiny fairy about as big as a blade of grass. She had on a red leaf cloak and bonnet and held a basket made of grasses in one hand and she was standing outside a hole in a bank, which was nearly hidden by leaves."Half a pound of ginger jam please," she repeated and then the leaves were pushed on one side and a wasp, with a yellow and black striped apron on, came to the door."Walk in Madam," he said. "Mrs.
Wasp will get the jam ready in a minute but unfortunately we have run short of blueberries and Stripes will have to fetch a few from the nearest house. I am sorry to say that he has lost his blue bottle not though," he added, "So I shall have to ask you to take a seat for a few minutes.""Oh certainly," replied the fairy.
I do not mind how long I wait. I lost my lundell clock yesterday and so I do not have to trouble about the time at all to-day.""That is just as well, Madam," replied the wasp. "As we have no clock either at present and so time does not count."Then the fairy walked inside and the wasp shut the door behind her.Billy got up and went to have a look at the leaf door and found that it was firmly shut."I must not look into other people's houses," he said to himself, "Because that would be rude I expect but I should like to see what is inside."Just then he heard several more voices. One said, "Is this the way to Madam Butterflies' new shop?"To which someone replied, "Yes, up the bank to your right and you will find it in Laurel Lane.""Thank you," replied the first one,
"I have to buy a hat for the wedding
this afternoon and I hear that Madam Butterfly has just had a new supply in.""Yes," answered the second one.
"But they are very dear. Three cups of honey for an ordinary sunbonnet!"There was silence for a few minutes, then all of a sudden Billy heard a number of people talking at once and several fairies came running along the bank and popped behind the big leaves."Has Mr. Spider spun my new cray?" asked one.And "Here are a dozen ants eggs," went on another. "Please pack them carefully and send them to Mrs. Frog with my compliments. She has been very ill and is only able to sit up a little.""Certainly Madam," said a new voice, "And I will send the caterpillar pie by the same messenger.""Why it must be a row of fairy shops," Billy thought, and he said out loud, "Please may I come and see your shops?"But a shrill voice cried out "No, not to-day. You are much too big and might break them down. Wait till you are smaller and then I will show them to you.""I shall never grow smaller," Billy replied in a disappointed voice, "So I am afraid I shall never see them.""Of course anyone can make himself smaller," the shrill voice replied.
"When is your birthday?""It's next Saturday," answered Billy."Oh that is quite soon," said the fairy. "You wait till your birthday comes round and then see what happens."

PETER PAN.

You will see in next week's Corner
what did happen.

BUILDING.

It looks so very easy
When the grown ups play with bricks.They put one on each other
And somehow it always sticks.They build great towers and houses
And I knock them down once more,
I like to see my Daddy
Building houses on the floor.He is so high above me
And he makes me feel so wee,
I like to see my Daddy
When he's just as small as me.And later when I'm bigger
And my Daddy's old and gray,
Then he can knock them over
And I'll build for him all day.

PETER PAN.

How many cows' tails would it take to reach the moon?
One, if it were long enough.The word "shipchandler" is, in the eyes of the great telegraph companies, two words. The wife of a member of the Imperial Merchant Service Guild, having occasion to send a code telegram to her husband in New York was surprised to find that the word in question was reckoned as two when she was called upon to pay for the message, and she advised the Guild of what appeared to her to be an error. The facts were brought to the notice of the telegraph company in question, and a reply has been received which states that code words are limited to ten letters, any excess being counted as a word by indivisible series of ten characters.
Should plain language words appear with code words in the text of a message they are subject to the code count of ten letters to the word. For telegrams written entirely in plain language the maximum length of the chargeable word is fixed at fifteen letters and in such a message it is not thought there would be any objection to the word "shipchandler" being accepted as one word.

"TRUTH, JUSTICE, PUBLIC SERVICE"

HONGKONG, SATURDAY, FEB. 26, 1921.

ADVERSARIA.

The allegation is that when certain persons are arrested and charged and tried (with all the pomp and circumstance of our Courts) and acquitted, they are promptly re-arrested, probably ill-treated, and banished after merely departmental and private formalities have been gone through. I am asked for my opinion. From what I've seen, I think it very likely. This is how the police regard it. "Here," they say, "is a dangerous person, a thorough bad lot, whom we caught after a lot of trouble. They are hard to catch, these bad uns, and it isn't easy to get a conviction. There is so much red tape. We know he was guilty, but they let him off." This, as you see, is a very natural point of view. It certainly makes the police into the last judges, which is wrong; but if they are, as some think, better judges than the judges—why, there you are. There are lots of irregularities here just as bad, which I have pointed out and protested against; and got no backing. Why should I support you when you didn't support me? Fight your own blooming battles.

Alice Meynell in Squire's Mercury for January has some verses on "The English Metres" that are very ingenious. Here are the first five:

The rooted liberty of flowers in breeze
Is theirs, by national luck impulsive, terse,
Tethered, uncaptured, rules obeyed
Time strengthened laws of verse.

Or they are like our seasons that admit
Inflection, not infraction: Autumn hoar,
Winter more tender than our thoughts of it,
But a year's steadfast four;

Redundant syllables of summer rain,
And displaced accents of authentic Spring;
Spondaic clouds above a gusty plain
With dactyls on the wing.

Not Common Law, but Equity, is theirs—
Our metres: play and agile foot advance,
And distant, beckoning, blithely rhyming pairs,
Unknown to classic France;

Unknown to Italy. Ay, count, collate,
Latin! with eye foreseeing on the time,
And numbered fingers, and approving fate
In the appropriate rhyme.

Are you down-
CONSTITUTIONAL hearted? Are you in mourning for CONSTITUTIONAL Reform?

tional Reform, that child of pride and fond hope? I would cheer you up if I could, and coax you to look on the bright side. It would have been a child very difficult to rear. Dropping metaphor it was a problem that put forth fresh and harder problems, the further it advanced. You are now, quite of them all, and need neither your dear fat head no more. Our rulers have wiped it off the slate, and it is up to us to make the best of what we have. After all, I don't believe you care very much. You haven't backed up Holyoak and Cartwright as if you did, and it was for you they were working and fighting. If they carry on working and fighting for you, as I fancy they may, what are you going to do about it? The interests against them, and against you, work underground and powerfully. If you really care, you must show it. As for me, I know when I've had enough. You may be bureaucratic slaves to the end of the chapter, but they can't touch me—I've got my fingers crossed.

LEG SHAKLES AND HANDICAPS.

Observe the newspaper story which tells how golf becomes the arbiter of women's fashion. Young woman orders tailor-made tweed skirt, of a width not to allow more than a pace of 22 in. Her golf pro. had told her she kept her feet too wide apart when driving! Silly story, or a silly girl. There's a lot of walking in golf, and a hobble skirt would be tiresome. If all she wanted was a measured stance in driving, a strap round the ankles, removable at other times, would have served her purpose. I say strap rather than chain, because I do not associate this story in any way with the chain worn by the young lady in Flaubert's "Salammbô."

THE SHORT STORIES of Anton Tchekhov are like scraps on the chopping block of Life the butcher. From his notebook, just translated, and presently to be published, these two bits come:

"They celebrated the birthday of an honest man. Took the opportunity to show off and praise one another. Only towards the end of the dinner they suddenly discovered that the man had not been invited; they had forgotten."

Solomon (sings): Oh, how dark is life! No night, when I was a child, so terrified me by its darkness as does my invisible existence. Lord, to David my father then, what was the gift of harmonising words and sounds, to sing and praise thee on strings, to lament sweetly, to make people weep or admire beauty; but why hast thou given me a meditative, sleepless, hungry mind? Like an insect born of the dust, I hide in darkness; and in fear and despair, all shivering and shivering, I see and hear in everything an invisible mystery. Why this morning?

Why does the sun come out from behind the temple and gild the palm tree? Why the beauty of women? Where does the bird hurry, what is the meaning of its flight, if it and its young and the place to which it hastens will, like myself, turn to dust? It were better I had never been born. In order to tire out my body by nightfall, all day yesterday, like a mere workman, I carried marble to the temple; but now the night has come and I cannot sleep. I'll go and lie down. Phosores told me that if one imagines a flock of sheep running and fixes one's attention upon it the mind gets confused and one falls asleep. I'll do it."

Capt. Francis McCullagh makes a curious slip in writing from Riga about a custom that has sprung up whereby Russian ladies marry foreigners in order to get out of the country. A young ex-officer friend of his saw an ad. by a lady with a large dowry wishing to marry a young Englishman. "He made enquiries, but having found that the lady wanted the marriage to be merely nominal, and having a fiancée awaiting him in Belfast, he took no further steps." That way of putting it gives one the impression that if everything else had been satisfactory, the Belfast lady would still be waiting.

Lady Selborne thinks the objection to girls and women working for "pin money" is thoughtless. It is not. Lady Selborne may be right in thinking that a woman who is already supported by father or husband, but who prefers to work rather than be idle, is a good citizen; but she misses the whole point. The objection is that these females who compete in the wage market under no stress of necessity can and do lower wages, by accepting less pay than is necessary to keep a worker who must maintain herself.

Someone in Waverly, ROGZAL, Va., has sent me a booklet about the new world language, "Ro," which is described as the a priori language. A sample "rogzal" or sentence runs thus: "Uf ac el id abz in at elab id Bo at iracamo ro ate babar, rufio id abz," which means "If you are with us in the hope to make Ro the international language of the world, write to us." The answer is in the negative.

"We are not amused," coldly moved, and severely observed Queen Victoria, when snubbing a courier. A Bremen chaplain sends us a complaint of the ill-treatment of German prisoners of war still in France. It is not our fault that German conduct in the war compels us to confess that we are not amused.

MUSIC THAT FALLS. A correspondent asks me when the Band of the Wilts Regiment is going to have a new tune to play on Sunday mornings on the Parade Ground. She says she is growing weary of the same tune month in and month out. I can understand how she feels about it, and if the Bandmaster is as willing to please a lady as I am, he will switch tomorrow into something less monotonous. A man of the Wilts cannot be a man who won't.

Where anxiety is, the least grain of comfort is appreciated, and there has certainly been anxiety about the piece goods trade. I learn from one who is in it that since China New Year the outlook has brightened. Hongkong merchants are making clearances that until they were in the South China, the tone of the market indicates early improvement. Up country stores are not glutted with stocks, so that while last spring's turn-over was not looked for, there is a real prospect of worth while business. That's good.

I have spent a good many happy hours lately making a one-string cello out of a cigar box (or rather, several cigar boxes) experimenting until I got to the stage of picking out Tosti's "Goodbye." The Rosary, etc., and Esau had ceased to give his protest (he has a better ear than mine). I felt the creative joy and complacency. I showed the thing to a friend who dropped in for a look. He said: "Is your piano in tune?" I replied: "It was tuned by Anderson's not long ago."

Then I think I could manage to play your accompaniments. We might have a musical evening. I asked him if he had done well at the races. I had to change the conversation for I saw that he meant to be kind, and couldn't possibly make him understand. He is probably a musician. I'm not. I bathe musicians. They fuss and fret over semitones. When I am making happy noises, for my own enjoyment, semitones are nothing to me. Musicians think I should play the tempo as directed by the composer. I don't. I go as I please. The chords of the dead march, played in rag-time, please me. It shocks the musician. Well, let musicians keep out of my way. My way is to enjoy myself, and for that I make my own rules.

Several people have this week grumbled to me this week about the Race Club deducting 20 per cent. commission from the cash sweeps. They say that is a bigger deduction than was made even for War Charities. I have no patience with such grumblers. They are not forced to buy. If they really mean what they say, why do they buy? If they stopped buying, the Race Club would do the worrying, and probably reduce its rake-off chop-chop. As it was, such crowds were rushing to gamble to invest, that they got in each other's way, and complained of the slowness of the clerks.

Also one of the trees in Statue Square has a flower on it, and the bees are busy in the flower market.

The story as told to me on the street yesterday. A certain man bought what he thought was a ticket for the Derby. After the race he discovered that it was the winning number. He presented it, and the Clerk told him it was for the Champions, not yet run. How's that for chagrin?

As you are all pony mad this week, I'm not bothering to write much. As an experienced lecturer, I curtail my delivery to an inattentive audience. It means that I'll get less money this week, but as I saved a lot by not betting, I reckon I can afford it. Esau agrees with me about this. He says he would rather be out in the fields this fine weather than indoors watching me write. He knows of a most fascinating rat hole on the new road.

Truth, pretending to argue in defence of Winston Churchill's appointment as Secretary of State for the Colonies, says "it is of the utmost consequence that we should keep the Bolsheviks out of these colonies, wherever situated. These seem sound arguments for relieving the War Office of a chief who is rather given to running his own show without much reference to anybody else's." This comment looks like a double-barrelled reference to our knockout in the matter of Constitutional Reform.

A friend of mine, writing privately, thinks it must have been Milner who turned down Hongkong's aspiration, and that Winston merely happened along in time to be his mouthpiece. If the truth ever comes out, I'm ready to bet that Milner in his slow way was still considering it, and that Winston said "No" as soon as it was put to him. I prophesy that this Colony, and others, will be glad when Winston once more "places his sword at the disposal of his country," as he theatrically did when quitting the Admiralty. It would be worth while to get up another war to give him the chance.

For the first time in its history the Navy is about to possess officers of wardroom rank who have risen from the lower-deck solely by competitive examination. Within the next six weeks (Jan. 19 to March 3) five candidates are expected to be promoted to lieutenants from amongst those who sat under the new scheme. I wish them good luck, and I trust (says Truth) that they will be given appointments worthy of their achievement, and not quietly slipped into back-water jobs as a cessation to conservative prejudices.

Already the Review of Reviews shows the effects of a change of editor. Philip Gibbs has started well. Here are a few worth-while thoughts he got from G. K. Chesterton, entitled "Return."

"The difficulty of defining an ideal is that it tends to be a platitude: a thing that everybody agrees to and nobody acts on. If I had to put most shortly what is distinctive in my individual ideal for the near future, I think it would be found in the word 'return.' Unless we are free to return, we are not free at all. The Political Son, I suppose, is an example. So much that is called progress is merely fatalism; we must go on because we cannot stop. Because wealth is too much centralized, it must be more centralized; because everything is officialized we must have more officials; because the family has been despised, it must be destroyed. I say on the contrary that we must revert to the normal or perish; to Christendom before it was poisoned by Prussia; to the guilds before they were crushed by capitalism; to freedom before the war was made an excuse for turning temporary discipline into permanent slavery. Some call this living in a dead world; but it is just the contrary. If the spring did not return, we should know that the world was dead."

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

WATCH FOR OUR SOUVENIR NUMBER

In the fifth test match mentioned in our earlier cables in which England made 204 in the first innings, Kellaway took four wickets for 27 and Gregory three wickets for 42.

Messrs. Lazarus, the well-known firm of opticians, are removing to No. 12, Queen's Road, until recently occupied by Pathe Freres, and next door to the Colonial Dispensary. The business of Messrs. Lazarus has rapidly extended; and in their new commodious premises they anticipate making improvements in order to satisfy the increasing demands of their large clientele.

The following is an extract from the report and award list of the Vere Foster Writing Competition for 1919-1920:—A copy of conspicuous merit and deserving of special commendation has been submitted by Ma Ping Lit, Saiyungyung English School, Hongkong. In order of merit he ranks fourth in the Empire. This is the fourth occasion on which awards have been made to pupils from this school.

Shipowners are becoming alarmed at the prolonged slump in the freight markets, and they have had to confess that the depression has to some extent caught them unawares. One prominent owner told a home correspondent in mail week that there is not in his opinion a paying freight offering in all the markets, and that the pick of the business offering at the present time would show a substantial loss. In fact some of the rates accepted by owners are so low that the fixtures are being kept secret, as shippers, if they knew all, would at once press for further concessions. It is a fact, however that 30s per ton is considered as quite within the bounds of possibility for such voyages as River Plate-United Kingdom-Continental and Karachi home within the next few weeks. These rates compare with 200s and 100s respectively a year ago, while two years ago a freight of 250,000 was paid in a lump sum for a voyage from South America to the Mediterranean. It is a fall with a vengeance, and probably the sum mentioned would not only pay the freight at the present time, but buy the ship as well!

HONGKONG JOCKEY CLUB MEETING.

FOURTH DAYS RACES.

CLOSE OF BRILLIANT MEETING.

LARGE CROWD WATCHES CLOSING EVENTS.

Today, the fourth and last day of the 1921 meeting of the Hongkong Jockey Club at Happy Valley, brought out a large crowd intent on taking advantage of the final opportunity presented by the biggest sporting event of the year.

Again it was a good racing day, with a bright sun, shaded at times by drifting clouds, and a fast track—though to be sure it was a trifle dusty. And it was warm enough to permit the ladies to appear in their daintiest dresses, and their most sumptuous hats, with the result that the stands were pictures of pretty colours. Everybody was out to be entertained, and an spirit of enjoyment was in the air. Even those who had seen their best "dips" go glimmering, and had lost with painful regularity, and had every normal reason for being down-hearted—even they clung the hope that on this closing day their luck would turn, and their last chances would be better than their first. Accordingly, they too, were optimistic.

This was the "off" day of the Meeting, the day when the "non-winners" and the "also-rans" were to have their opportunity. The programme included such promising numbers as The "Also Ran" Stakes, The "Loiterers" Stakes, The "Final" Stakes, and The "Last Chance" Plate—all of them engaging to give as much sport as the feature races of the Meeting, such as the Derby and the Champion Stakes. For even "also-rans" can put up an exciting contest among themselves, though they may not do so much against the top-notchers.

The uncertainty that prevailed among the "non-winners" and the "also-rans" regarding their special qualifications, added zest to the betting. It is one thing to back favourites; it is quite another to back unknown quantities. Altogether, there seemed to be more fun in placing bets to-day than on any of the previous days—always excepting such an interesting distribution as that of the cash sweep on the Championship. That sweep on the Championship. That certainly was a good one—that $24,080.

In every way it has been a most successful meeting. No better could be said than that. Even the weather man did his share in a handsome manner. This should be remembered to his credit in case, at some future time, he suffers from a spell of ill-temper and refuse to co-operate.

Of the Owners, Sir Paul Chater's stable still stood first at the close of the third day's racing, with 6 firsts, 8 seconds, and 4 thirds to its credit. Next came Mr. John Peel, with 4 firsts, 2 seconds, and 5 thirds, followed by Mr. G. H. Potts, with 3 firsts and 2 seconds, and Sir Ellis Kadoorie, with 3 firsts and 4 seconds.

Mr. Knoll led the Jockeys, with 8 firsts, 8 seconds, and 1 third on his list. Second was Mr. Johnstone, with 7 firsts, 2 seconds, and 5 thirds. Then came Mr. Vida, with 5 firsts, 7 seconds, and 5 thirds. Mr. Sores, Mr. Heard, and Mr. Hill were close upon them, and then came Mr. Nemaze, Mr. White, and Mr. Waillemair.

MACROOM AMBUSH.

FURTHER DETAILS OF FIERCE ENCOUNTER.

SIXTY FIFTEEN USE BOMBS.

LONDON, February 26.

Latest details of the ambush near Macroom show that the preparations for the attack were extensive. It is stated that the road was mined where it was attacked, and that intense firing followed the first explosion. According to another account the road was completely blocked by fallen trees, boulders and other obstacles, so that the police were forced to dismount and take cover. The attackers also used bombs. After a lengthy battle, the attackers closed in on three sides, compelling the police to retreat towards Macroom. A running fight was continued till Macroom was practically in sight. The dead and wounded are being brought into Macroom which is in a state of alarm. All the inhabitants have been ordered into their houses.

THE CASUALTIES.

The casualties suffered by the Crown Forces in the Macroom ambush are now stated to be one killed and eight wounded. The attackers casualties are not known, but they are reported to have lost heavily from machine gun fire when retreating.

GERMAN REPARATIONS.

PARIS DECISIONS DECLARED IMPOSSIBLE.

BERLIN, February 26.

It is semi-officially stated that the final sitting of experts presided over by Herr Simons unanimously came to the conclusion that acceptance of the Paris demands was impossible on economic and financial grounds and that any attempt to find a solution on the basis of the Paris decisions must lead to collapse of the world's economic life. A memorandum approved by the experts demonstrates in detail that this is an impossibility. The experts are declared to be unanimously agreed with the standpoint of the Imperial Government in its willingness to go to the limits of Germany's ability in the firm counter proposals that must be made.

MYSTERIOUS NEWSPAPER WARNING.

LONDON, February 26.

A Berlin telegram gives an explanation of the mysterious warning in the Allgemeine Zeitung against headless action which will only renew foreign suspicion of Germany's military leanings and be imputed by the German proletariat to the whole of the middle class instead of a few political adventurers is given by a Berlin correspondent to a Munich paper who states that Ehrhardt, the Chief supporter of the Kapp revolt, proposed to the industrial magnate Hugo Stinnes that if the German Government again broke down in its negotiations with the Entente Stinnes should overthrow it and assume a dictatorship. Stinnes, who refused, described the plan as crazy. It is stated that General Ludendorff previously refused similarly and that Ehrhardt's following was not more than 4,000 men.

IMPERIAL NAVAL DEFENCE.

CANADA'S PREMIER URGED TO "STEP WARILY."

OTTAWA, February 26.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Crerar, leader of the Agrarians, referring to the statement of Mr. Lloyd George in the House of Commons that "it was too much to expect these small islands to undertake the whole burden of the naval defence of the Empire," said that this was a significant declaration bearing on the forthcoming conference of Dominion premiers. The sanction of Parliament should be obtained before Canada was committed to any such emergency defence or other Imperial arrangement. He urged the Premier, Mr. Meighen, to "step warily" in the negotiations on the matter.

SHIPPING DEPRESSION.

HALF U.S. SHIPPING BOARD'S FLEET TIED UP.

ENORMOUS LOSSES.

NEW YORK, February 26.

Half the Shipping Board's fleet, or 516 vessels, of a tonnage of 1,250,000, has now been tied up. Steamship officials believe that the peak of the shipping depression will not be reached till another 100 have been withdrawn from the trade. It is estimated that the loss on the Board's vessels still operating will be $6,250,000 during the first six months of 1921.

SIKH TEMPLE RIOT.

AT LEAST SIXTY-SEVEN PERSONS KILLED.

LONDON, February 26.

An official account of the Sikh inter-religious fighting at Nankana in the Punjab (cabled yesterday) states that at least 67 persons were killed. The corpses of many of the victims were burned. Two hundred British and Indian troops were sent from Lahore at the request of the Deputy Commissioner. A priest, two of his disciples, and 26 Pathan watchmen were arrested. The fighting is believed to have been the result of disagreement on religious matters between the reformers and the managers of the Sikh Temple.

BISHOP OF SINGAPORE OUTWARD BOUND.

LONDON, February 26.

The Bishop of Singapore and Mrs. Ferguson Davie sailed on the "Morvada" for India en route to Singapore.

AMERICAN IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.

WASHINGTON, February 26.

The exports in January were $655,000,000, including $3,000,000 gold. The imports were $209,000,000, including $38,000,000 gold.

CORRESPONDENCE.

BRITISH MERCANTILE MARINE STANDARD UNIFORM.

(To the Editor of the "China Mail.")

Sir,—I herewith enclose Extract from Mercantile Marine Service Association Reporter concerning the Improper Wearing of the Standard Uniform in the British Mercantile Marine.

As intimated in the October issue, the improper wearing of the British Mercantile Marine Standard Uniform has been the subject of Police Court prosecutions on two occasions recently. The Board of Trade, in recording these prosecutions, have issued the following warning dealing with the subject.

The attention of Officers and Men of the Mercantile Marine and the persons, is called to the provisions of the British Mercantile Marine Uniform Act 1919, and to the Order in Council instituting this standard Uniform for the Mercantile Marine, dated Sept. 4, 1918.

This act provides that if any person, not being entitled to wear the British Mercantile Marine Uniform as described in the order in Council, wears the uniform or any similar dress, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding £5, or, if he wears it in a manner likely to bring contempt on the Uniform, to a fine not exceeding £10, or to imprisonment, with or without hard labour for a term not exceeding one month.

Yours truly,

KOCHAR.

ANOTHER SEAMAN GROWSL.

(To the Editor of the "China Mail.")

Sir,—After reading the controversy regarding the desertion of seamen from their ships in American ports, I beg to ask those interested in British shipping, why it is that seamen are living under the same filthy conditions as they were 30 years ago. Considering the part the British seamen played during the War, sacrificing life and everything that was dear to them, in order to provide England and her huge Army with food, it seems to me, the least that could be done, would be to have similar conditions as the American ships. It is a degrading sight, and an everlasting shame to the English shipowner, to see British seamen joining their ships each one carrying their straw beds commonly called "Donkey's breakfast" through the streets. I myself am one of the many, who were driven from British ships, by the degrading conditions under which no self-respecting man wishes to live. I would be glad if some of the many people would explain through your valuable paper.

I am Sir,

Your faithfully,

D. E. ROBINSON.

BOLD ROBBER GANG.

LATEST DEPREDACTIONS.

THREE HAULS IN ONE NIGHT.

A gang of three armed men which has been terrorizing the Capsicum and Chukung districts in the New Territories lately, has made life and property in those districts very unsafe. Though hitherto their depredations have not been marked by murder, the robbers are reputed to be desperate characters who would stop at little. Consequently the villagers have learned not to offer resistance.

On the night of February 23, at about 11.30 p.m., the outlaws broke into house No. 28, Capsicum village occupied by a dealer in opium, and after tying up the master of the house, his mother, wife and sister, placed them into a corner where one man stood guard while the others ransacked the house, stealing a quantity of opium valued at $179, and jewellery, clothing and money valued together at $207.

Leaving the house the robbers went next door (No. 25) and there made a haul of $280 in small coins and some clothing, jewellery and other valuables.

About half an hour later, they entered No. 24, Chukung, a neighbouring village and here stole $350 in bank notes and some clothing, to the total value of $414.

ARMED ROBBERY.

A FLAT ENTERED.

INMATES OVERPOWERED.

About 4.30 p.m. on Feb. 25, three men, pretending to be purchasers entered the top floor of No. 56, Queen's Road West, occupied by Ho Oi Seng, a dealer in Chinese medicine. Once in the house, the men produced daggers, and after threatening to kill Ho and his family, if they raised an alarm, bound and gagged them. The robbers then ransacked the premises, stealing $14 in money, a quantity of jewellery and a fur lined waistcoat belonging to Ho's wife, valued together at $169.

Two lengths; half a length.

A good race. Passing the stands the order was Strathfarrar, Conqueror Dahlia, and Merryland. Charing Cross was a good fourth. At the back stretch Charing Cross fell back to fifth place. The field closed up at the incline and round the top bend they were in a bunch with Conqueror Dahlia going very strongly. At the home straight they were still in a bunch, the Dahlia in front. About 100 yards from home Allied King, Exchequer Bill and Merryland spurred and all beat the Dahlia in the order mentioned.

The Chairman:—As it is past the hour for which this meeting has been called, I will ask the Chief Manager to read the notice convening the meeting.

The notice having been read the Chairman said: Gentlemen, the Report and Statement of Accounts having been in your hands for some time I shall follow the usual custom and take them as read.

The statement shows a net profit for the year of $3,841,166.30, which compares with $7,386,862.09 for 1919. Last June, as the prospects seemed so favourable as to justify an increase of the dividend, we made an interim distribution of £3 per share, and on this occasion we propose to distribute a final dividend of £3 and a bonus of £2, making in all £5 for the year the same as in 1919.

We propose also to continue the policy of strengthening our reserves, and accordingly $2,029,411.76 out of the year's profits is added to the Silver Reserve.

As stated in our Report, the transfer of £1 million to our Sterling Reserve was effected at a favourable rate during the year, and that fund now stands at £3,500,000. The Silver Reserve, with the proposed addition, will stand at $21,500,000.

With regard to Bank Premises, the expenditure on buildings in recent years has been heavy but entirely unavoidable. Our business has gradually outgrown our accommodation and in addition to the new buildings referred to last year, it will soon be necessary to rebuild our Singapore Office. When it and the other buildings now under construction are completed, the Bank will be housed in all its principal places of business in the East in modern and commodious premises, sufficient for our requirements for many years to come, and no further considerable expenditure should be necessary unless, of course, we decide from time to time to extend the area of our activities.

Meanwhile, we propose to continue writing down these properties which the profits permit and at this occasion we propose to allot $1 million for that purpose.

The great depreciation in all gilt-edged securities in the course of the year has entailed heavy writing down of our Sterling and other Gold Investments; this, however, has been accomplished from the current profits and all our Gold securities now stand either at well under their market value, or have been adequately provided for.

The balance carried forward is $3,391,491.69 compared with $3,263,847.30 in 1919.

It is noticeable however that the depression in trade is reflected in our cash balances which show a large increase on those of the previous year. Our Silver deposits have also increased considerably and the dollars total of our assets and liabilities is the highest recorded in the history of the Bank.

Your Directors have had under consideration the desirability of increasing the capital of the Bank, and have decided to issue the remaining 40,000 shares, say $5 million, which the present Ordinance authorises them to do.

The necessity for this measure has no doubt been generally apparent for some time past, as the Bank's business has kept pace with the expansion of Eastern trade and its liabilities to the public are now $480,398,000 compared with $215,280,000 in 1907 when our capital was last increased from $10 million to $45 million.

The enhanced value of merchandise of all kinds entails greater calls on our resources than formerly, making addition to them urgently necessary. My predecessor in this Chair in 1907 remarked on a similar occasion that whatever political changes may be in store for China, there can be little doubt but that the ultimate outcome will be a wider field for the operation of foreign capital, and a considerable increase in overseas trade. I think that this is as true to-day as it was fourteen years ago.

The question of the issue price of the new shares was closely considered by your Directors. In arriving at the decision to issue at £70, they were guided by a long view of the permanent interests of investors in our Stock. This figure confers a substantial bonus, while the addition to our Reserves of the funds to be received will considerably increase not only the earning power, but also the prestige of the Bank.

In due course a special circular will be sent to each shareholder, and an Extraordinary Meeting will be called, when the Resolutions necessary to obtain your sanction to the scheme will be put before you.

Since we met last year, the reaction that was to be expected after the great trade boom of 1919 and early 1920 has taken place. The disorganisation of the world's exchanges became more pronounced in the course of the year, and in Asia, currencies normally based on Gold, such as those of India, Java, the Philippines and Japan, moved in orbits of their own, with variations not always easy to foresee and provide for. Still, notwithstanding these handicaps and the vagaries of the Silver market, to which I will refer later, the earning power of the Bank was more than maintained, and I think we should record our appreciation of the able way our Managers and Agents have handled what must have been at times very difficult situations. I am sure the Directors anticipated the wishes of the Shareholders when they decided to vote a bonus of 20% to the Staff on their salaries in recognition of their efforts in maintaining the Bank's service in a high state of efficiency.

As is well known to you, Sir Newton Stubb resigned the Chief Management at the end of the year, after filling that position with brilliant ability and untiring energy for a period of over ten years. During his regime the prestige and the business of the Bank increased very greatly, and the Directors wish to record their deep appreciation of the distinguished services he rendered to the Corporation. They wish also to tender him on their own behalf, and I am sure on behalf of the Shareholders, their congratulations on the honour conferred on him by H.M. the King, which is a fitting crown to his career in the East.

It is fitting that I should here refer to the already valuable services rendered to this Institution in many positions of trust by Sir Newton Stubb's predecessor, Mr. A. G. Stephens. Your Directors, while congratulating Mr. Stephens on his well merited promotion, are confident that the Bank's best interests and those of the Shareholders will be served by his departure. During May, the European, will in his hands of the Bank, in the same safe keeping in the East, as they have been with his predecessors in the past.

The Silver market showed very marked fluctuations during the year. From 75¢ at the beginning of January, it rose rapidly till it attained the extraordinary price of 89¢ on the 11th February. The keen demand then existing for China's products and the discredit into which various paper currencies had fallen among the Chinese people, produced a very strong demand for silver, which was not satisfied till the United States Government ultimately allowed the export to China of very large amounts from their stocks of Silver dollars.

The cessation of the demand for exports found China moderately well supplied with Silver, and during the latter half of the year she was not able to absorb what was offering. India was in the same case, and no Government in the world was making fresh issues of Silver coinage. On the contrary, many Governments, including our own, were either melting their Silver coinage and selling the bullion, or replacing the existing coinage by one of inferior fineness.

Consequently the price rapidly fell throughout the year and reached 40¢ on the 31st December. The China exchanges reacted similarly, and from 9-3d. for the tael and 6-2d. for the dollar, they declined to 4-1d. and 3-2d. respectively.

Even the high prices generated by the extraordinary demands of war led to no increase in the annual production of the metal: it remains at about 195,000,000 ounces. But this amount is not all available. We must deduct from it 60,000,000 ounces of the United States production to be purchased by the American Government in accordance with their undertaking to replace the 200,000,000 ounces sold to the Government of India. On the other hand, economies in the use of silver as currency already referred to have compensated for the loss of the American production as a source of world supply.

On the Continent, where paper issues have supplanted the old metallic currencies, silver has been largely demonetized and sold, as securities are sold, in order to obtain credit in other countries.

For the reason stated the ordinary Mint demands for silver coinage, both in England and the Continent, are in abeyance, and it seems unlikely that they will be revived in the near future. A considerable part of the trade demand has been met by the melting down of silver plate. In India the reserve of silver rupees, some sixty crores, is larger than it has ever been, and seems ample to meet all requirements for some time to come.

In these circumstances, on the assumption that the American purchases have been offset by the Continental sales and that India is well supplied, it is upon China that the burden will fall of absorbing an amount equal to the world production of silver. In other words, China's trade balance is at present the governing factor in the silver situation and the prospect of her being able to increase, or even to maintain, last year's import of 96½ million ounces is, to say the least of it, doubtful.

The cumulative effects of depression in the world's markets, particularly affected Japan, owing to the very exceptional expansion of her foreign trade during the four or five preceding years, and were fully felt by April, when something in the nature of a crisis might well have overtaken the country. There was indeed a stock exchange crisis, culminating in the closing of the Exchange over a lengthy period, which naturally affected all investors. Generally speaking, however, though some important and well-known names have unfortunately suffered eclipse and brought loss to others in their fall, and though 1920 has been a bad year for everyone all round, merchants, manufacturers, dealers, and all concerned faced their position correctly and prepared themselves to suffer losses and pay their debts, and such it is certain will continue to be their attitude.

There are some difficult months ahead still accumulated stock of imports go into consumption, and till exports have revived, the last difficult state to bring about now, owing to the existing high cost of production in Japan, but there is nothing to justify the pessimistic view of the country's condition which lately has been expressed in some quarters.

In China, with which we are of course, more intimately concerned, the year 1920 opened with a phenomenal boom in trade generally, the export trade was brisk and prices advanced, and the Government, making large profits during the first four months of the year, during May, the European, will in his hands of the Bank, in the same safe keeping in the East, as they have been with his predecessors in the past.

The Silver market showed very marked fluctuations during the year. From 75¢ at the beginning of January, it rose rapidly till it attained the extraordinary price of 89¢ on the 11th February. The keen demand then existing for China's products and the discredit into which various paper currencies had fallen among the Chinese people, produced a very strong demand for silver, which was not satisfied till the United States Government ultimately allowed the export to China of very large amounts from their stocks of Silver dollars.

The cessation of the demand for exports found China moderately well supplied with Silver, and during the latter half of the year she was not able to absorb what was offering. India was in the same case, and no Government in the world was making fresh issues of Silver coinage. On the contrary, many Governments, including our own, were either melting their Silver coinage and selling the bullion, or replacing the existing coinage by one of inferior fineness.

Imports coming on the market during the first four months of the year were laid down at relatively high sterling rates of exchange, and very large profits were being made all round. Owing to the prosperity of the import trade in 1919 many new dealers appeared, particularly in piece goods. Enormous orders were placed in England and America, where manufacturers, flooded with orders, were in a position to command their own terms as to deliveries. Consequently many orders placed in 1919 for the Spring market in China were not delivered till well on in the autumn of 1920. Owing to such uncertainty as to deliveries, exchange in many instances was unsettled at time of arrival, with the result that a very large proportion of stocks had to face an overstocked market, with declining prices, caused by the heavy drop in the price of raw cotton, plus a drop of 50 per cent. in the value of the Tael and Dollar, as compared with rates ruling at the time orders were placed. The position was further embarrassed by political disturbances in the Northern and Central Provinces, where trade during June and July was practically at a standstill, owing to the presence of unpaid and uncontrolled soldiery.

The fact that the products of Asia have been confronted with overstocked markets and declining prices in Europe and America, has naturally had its effect on the purchasing powers of India, China, Japan and all other Eastern countries. In dealing with the situation thus created, we are necessarily proceeding with caution, but we are also carrying out the traditional policy of the Bank, and liberally, if judiciously, assisting our friends whose resources are temporarily immobilised by the stagnation of the markets. This policy has always been looked for from the Bank in the past and has invariably brought its own reward.

Speaking generally, the stocks of imported goods lying in Hongkong and the China ports are not excessive, and not more than what was normal in pre-war times. It is known that the markets in the interior are bare of supplies of these goods, so it is to be hoped that this trade will soon resume its normal course, and there are already welcome indications of this.

The volume of engineering business in North China was fair, but orders placed during the war are in many places still in process of completion. Further cotton mill and textile machinery is required to a large extent, whilst the requirements of the Chinese railways are very considerable; new locomotives and rolling stock are badly needed in many instances.

The Shanghai Cotton Mills enjoyed a period of unprecedented prosperity. The demand for mill products (particularly yarn) was consistently steady, and the mills have been able to manufacture profitably owing to comparatively cheap cotton. Handsome profits were also made on locally made cloth until the summer months, when the effects of the piece goods crisis began to be felt. From recent statistics it is estimated that there are nearly 1,300,000 active spindles in operation in China, and there is little doubt that the future prospects of the cotton industry in this country are encouraging, as is evidenced by the continued expansion in the capacity of the existing mills, both as regards spindles and looms.

The Maritime and Native Customs revenue collection under the Inspector-General of Customs, for 1920 amounted to H.K. Tels 49,500,000 and H.K. Tels 4,380,000 respectively, an increase of Tels 34 million in the case of the former over the previous record collection for 1919, and a decrease of H.K. Tels 111,000 in the case of the latter since last year, the net increase expressed in gold at average exchange being £2,242,709 over the figures for 1919 collection. After meeting all obligations, including the service of the Reorganisation Loan, Tels 23,150,000 surplus funds have been handed over to the free use of the Chinese Government.

While it has to be borne in mind that the increase is largely if not entirely due to the revision of the Customs tariff which began to be effective in August 1919, it is none the less a remarkable fact that in spite of the unsettled state of the country, and the political discussions which resulted in active hostilities and considerable curtailment of trade for many weeks last summer, a record collection can still be shown, and bears striking testimony to the vitality of the country's trade and of the great possibilities of the expansion under more favourable conditions.

The Salt Revenue collection for the year has also been maintained at a high level in spite of the unfavourable conditions to which I have already referred, coupled with the fact that the Salt Revenue Administration has not found it possible to resume its functions in the important Swatow area, which were discontinued in 1919, owing to interference by the local authorities. The total revenue amounted to $78,200,000, a decrease of $1,400,000 compared to the revenue for 1919, but still $7,561,000 more than the figures for 1918. It has, however, to be noted that of the total revenue less than $24,000,000 was realised or approximated locally by the Provincial Authorities, or Military Commanders, on their own uses, a striking testimony to the almost entire lack of control exercised by the Central Government over certain of the provinces.

After meeting all obligations secured on the Salt Revenue, the large amount of $64,000,000 (including $6,037,000 refunded by the Maritime Customs in respect of the service of the Reorganisation Loan) was released to the free use of the Chinese Government.

Little, if any, improvement can be noted in the political or financial situation in China during the past year. The overthrow of the Anfu party in the Peking Government which was accomplished last summer has not so far produced the results in the way of reform so confidently expected by many, and the immediate repudiation by the Southern authorities of the Presidential Mandate announcing that the differences between North and South were practically composed, showed that there is still a wide gulf between the two parties. Meanwhile both parties are themselves in a state of disension, and in the South new governments are formed and re-formed with bewildering rapidity. While this situation obtains, it is to be feared that the first steps towards the establishment of a really representative Government, sufficiently powerful to exercise authority over the provinces, which it becomes more and more evident is so necessary for the well-being and prosperity of the country, must inevitably be postponed.

Financially the Government, in spite of the large sums that have been released to their use by the Customs and Salt Revenue Administrations, are still in dire straits for money to meet their many obligations and administrative expenses, of which the heaviest item remains the pay of the army altogether beyond the legitimate requirements of the country. The fall in exchange, by largely increasing the amount payable in the coming year in discharge of Chinese gold obligations, adds to the difficulties of the situation, while the famine which now exists over a large area in the North, consequent upon the drought of last summer, imperatively calls for relief measures by the Government on a large scale, involving considerable extra expenditure if the lives of perhaps millions of people are not to be lost.

The foreign communities in China are giving what assistance lies in their power. This Colony and neighbouring British Colonies have contributed generously and funds have been opened in Europe and America by means of which large sums have been raised and are being expended in relief measures. The excellent work performed in this direction by foreign missionaries is the admiration of all who have seen and had experience of it. All that has been done in this way, however, has scarcely more than touched the fringe of the needs of the famine-stricken regions, and the handling of the situation is one of the most serious problems requiring the immediate attention of the Chinese Government.

The speech of my predecessor last year contained a reference to the preliminary negotiations for the re-establishment of the Consortium on a four Power basis: that is to say, the grouping of British, French, Japanese and American bankers for co-operative work in China. The year which has elapsed has brought these negotiations to a successful conclusion.

Mr. T. W. Lamont's visit to the Far East in the Spring had the happiest results in removing certain preliminary difficulties, and everyone concerned is much indebted to him and, through him, to Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co.

A meeting of the Four Groups took place in New York in October, and the agreement which they reached and the resolutions which they passed were subsequently made public.

The aims and objects of the Consortium, as to which misunderstanding has sometimes arisen, should now be sufficiently clear, but I will just touch upon the salient features.

In the first place, I should like to emphasise the point that the Consortium is a partnership which comprises transactions spread over a considerable period of time. While it provides general machinery for the loans contemplated, it does not contemplate a large immediate loan. Indeed, so long as the hold of the Central Government on the Provinces is in its present unsatisfactory condition, and so long as the likelihood of war between the contending factions remains, no loan can be considered. On the other hand, the Consortium is, as it were, a notice to the Great Powers to prepare to lend the sinews of reconstruction, and it is virtually a notice that without fulfilment of these conditions, China will not be able to borrow at all. If in the result this should lead to China borrowing at home rather than abroad, so much the better.

The second feature upon which I wish to lay emphasis is the fact that the policy of the Consortium, if steadfastly pursued, rings the death knell of the earlier policy of spheres of influence or interest. By the pooling of all outstanding agreements and options, and by an undertaking to share equally the financial and commercial results of all future business, the Powers in effect undertake to preserve China from those encroachments upon her sovereignty which have followed in the train of concessions in the past. There will be no second "Battle of the Concessions"; there will be no more "Playing off" by China of one Great Power against another: she will be met with fairness and reason, and we do not doubt, but above all with rigid unanimity. She will be offered for her loans the best terms that the financial world has available, and for all her requirements the most favourable prices that public tender can reach.

In conclusion, I must mention the question of the unification of railways, a prominent, practical part of the Consortium programme. The consolidation of the railways of this country under one administration, if ever carried into effect, cannot but prove of the highest advantage. Aside from the economy of administration which will be brought about by such a step, there is the more important question of local administration which railways in a partially developed district so often involve.

Were there a Chinese Railway Service moulded on the same lines and characterised by the same integrity as those of the Customs Service, and were the satisfactory profits which certain of the lines are able to earn, even under present conditions, devoted to improvements, and extensions, the time would not be distant when the end of railway borrowing would be in sight.

China has her own particular difficulties to contend with and these have a compelling interest for the Bank, but she is suffering also from the reactions of the war, like the rest of the world. The outstanding cause of the world's trade troubles to-day is lack of capital, loss of purchasing power. No quick remedies, such as a new international money or unit of account; no further inflation of currency; no extension of Government control or increase of Government restrictions will help us to sell our exports, or to correct our exchanges, for, next to peace, freedom is what trade requires: Governments can do much to establish both peace and freedom but the larger part of government expenditure in most European countries is in the nature of war expenditure, which is crippling trade and industry by its demands on capital.

Political instability still denies a proper bearing to the crying economic needs of the situation. The fact that the urgency of these needs has so far failed to force all nations into paths leading to universal peace, is only additional evidence of prodigious difficulties of the readjustments rendered necessary by the war's disturbance of the world's equilibrium. The restoration of conditions of security, without which no new period of trade expansion can be looked for, is everywhere hindered by political unrest, by aspirations, economically impossible of fulfilment. Extravagant hopes, along with all other forms of extravagance, must submit to the dictates of economic law. Recognition of the futility of rebellion against it is the beginning of wisdom. Happily its early beginnings are, first described in recent events, and first signs of returning confidence appear. Awaiting their development, it is for us to face the future in a spirit of quiet determination, to make the best of whatever situation may arise, and to discharge in a manner worthy of our predecessors, the great responsibilities laid upon this Institution.

The Chairman continued: I beg to propose the adoption of the Report and Statement of Accounts. After the proposal has been seconded and before placing the motion before the meeting, I shall be pleased to answer to the best of my ability any questions which shareholders may have to ask.

In concluding Mr. Humphreys said: Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen, The seconding of the Bank Report and Statement of Accounts is, so far as I am concerned, becoming a sort of family habit. My father did it on several occasions, and I remember Mr. Fraser Smith used to refer to him in his paper as the Champion seconding.

of accounts. Although I can lay no claim to being anything of the kind, this will make the third occasion I have seconded the Bank Report. I seconded the accounts when the capital of the Bank was increased in 1907 from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, so now your Chief Manager considers I ought to repeat the performance on the eve of the increase from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000. I said to the Chief Manager the other day, I thought that anyone who seconded the accounts more than three times should receive a bonus. He replied he had no objection but in such an event he would see to it that no one was asked to second the accounts more than three times.

I do not profess to be able to follow the intricacies of exchange or politics in China, so I shall refrain from comment on those thorny topics, but it does not require a Napoleon of finance to realise that when a pound sterling only buys about 7/6 worth of goods on a pre-war basis, more capital is required to carry on a business, and the business of this Bank, Gentlemen, as you are doubtless aware, not only stupendous, but increasing all the time. The issue price of the new shares viz. £70 is, in the circumstances, a fair one and will commend itself to those shareholders who look upon the increase of prestige and earning power of the Bank as the first consideration.

The proposed bonus of 20 per cent. to the staff will, I am sure, meet with your cordial approval.

Before sitting down I would like to say a few words about our late Chief Manager and our present one. We all feel pleased and honoured, that the valuable services of Mr. Stubb to this great Institution have been recognized by His Majesty the King in the shape of a Knighthood. As regards the present Chief Manager, I am confident he will prove a worthy successor to his illustrious predecessors. I knew him personally when we were both very young men, and for that reason have watched his advancement step by step to the highest rung in the ladder with more than passing interest. I have now much pleasure in seconding the Report and Statement of Accounts.

The Chairman: There being no questions, as proposed by myself and seconded by Mr. H. Humphreys, the motion now before the meeting is the adoption of the Report and Statement of Accounts as presented. Will those in favour kindly hold up their hands? Those against? Carried unanimously. The business now before the meeting is the election of Directors.

Mr. T. E. Pearce: I have much pleasure in proposing that the appointment of Mr. G. M. Dodwell, Mr. A. S. Gubbay, Mr. G. T. M. Edkins, and Mr. A. O. Lang as Directors be confirmed and that the Hon. Mr. E. V. D. Farr, Mr. A. H. Compton and the Hon. Mr. P. H. Holyoak be re-elected Directors.

Mr. A. E. Griffin: I beg to second that.

The Chairman: It is proposed by Mr. T. E. Pearce and seconded by Mr. A. E. Griffin that the appointment of Mr. G. M. Dodwell, Mr. A. S. Gubbay, Mr. G. T. M. Edkins, and Mr. A. O. Lang as Directors be confirmed and that the Hon. Mr. E. V. D. Farr, Mr. A. H. Compton and the Hon. Mr. P. H. Holyoak be re-elected Directors. Will those in favour kindly hold up their hands? Those against? Carried unanimously. The business now before the meeting is the election of Directors.

Mr. F. Smyth: I have much pleasure in proposing that Mr. F. Maitland and Mr. E. A. M. Williams be re-elected auditors for the year.

Mr. L. Dumbur: I beg to second that.

The Chairman: It is proposed by Mr. Smyth and seconded by Mr. L. Dumbur that Mr. F. Maitland and Mr. E. A. M. Williams be re-elected Auditors for the year. Will those in favour kindly hold up their hands? Those against? Carried unanimously.

Mr. G. C. Moron: Gentlemen, I rise to make a proposal which I think will meet with the general approval of those concerned and I think will give you as great pleasure to pass with unanimity as it does me to put the Resolution.

The Directors' Fees of this Bank were fixed at $20,000 per annum when the Bank was incorporated; they were raised to $30,000 in 1894—25 which figure they have remained ever since—that is to say over a period exceeding a quarter of a century. During this interval the capital of the Bank has been doubled and the total liabilities of this great Corporation have increased nearly four times.

In view of the increased and increasing responsibilities of our Court of Directors and in recognition of the ability and skill which have marked their conduct of our affairs I formally propose

That the annual fees of the Directors of the Hongkong & Shanghai Banking Corporation be raised from their present total of $30,000 to $50,000.

A figure, I venture to suggest, more commensurate with the work involved.

I trust that this proposal will find a ready second and meet with the unanimous approval of this meeting.

Mr. T. E. Pearce: I have pleasure in seconding that.

The Chairman: It is proposed by Mr. Moxon and seconded by Mr. T. E. Pearce that the annual fees of the Directors be increased from their present figure of $30,000 to $50,000. Those in favour kindly hold up their hands? Against? Carried unanimously.

Gentlemen, on behalf of the Directors, I should like to tender you our very best thanks for the resolution you have unanimously passed. I should like to say it comes as a complete surprise to your Directors and they will do their utmost to continue to deserve the confidence that you have shown in them.

Mr. Kewick said he had been asked to propose a vote of thanks to the Directors and staff. It had already been referred to by the previous speakers so that there remained little to be said. They knew that the Directors brought to the Councils of the Bank expert knowledge of the trade and finance of the Far East, but from personal experience, having sat on the Board of Directors, he thought it was due to the Chief Manager, the sub-managers and the staff that the Bank was so successful. They had just increased the remuneration of the Directors and had voted a bonus to the staff and he hoped the shareholders would be able to repeat that performance. He did not know if a second had been appointed but he thought it hardly needed one. He was sure they would carry it with applause.

The motion was carried with acclamation.

The Chairman: Thank you very much. That is all the business. Thank you for your attendance. Dividend warrants will be ready on Monday.

CORRESPONDENCE.

MEDICAL AID FOR CHILDREN.

(To the Editor of the "China Mail.")

Sir,—On the 17th instant the Colonial Secretary (in reply to Mr. Pollock) stated that the Government did not consider it desirable to make the neglect to provide "Medical Aid" for children a statutory offence.

Such neglect has been a statutory offence in England since 1868 at least, but in Hongkong the neglect of any child under the age of two was not made punishable by Ordinance until 1913, when Sir John Bucknill (at my suggestion) introduced what may be described as the first "Maid" and other children.

This enacted (in effect) that neglect to provide a child under 16 with adequate food, clothing or lodging rendered a parent, master or mistress liable to punishment.

The words "Medical Aid" which occurred in the English Act were omitted, probably because this step towards the Protection of Children was regarded as an experiment.

Since 1913 there has (I hope) been considerable advance in opinion on the subject amongst the Chinese as well as the other allied Nations.

At the present time the majority of the residents in this Colony know that "Medical Aid" can be obtained readily, either from the numerous private practitioners, or from the public hospitals and dispensaries, and that at the latter the parents (if Chinese) will be attended by practitioners and assistants of their own nationality.

As advice and medicine are provided free of charge to those who cannot afford to pay, poverty is no excuse for neglect.

Under the law of the Colony as it stands a parent or mistress may allow a child to suffer from a curable disease, or to become injured or disabled for life, and yet probably escape punishment although there is a hospital or public dispensary offering their requisite "Medical Aid" within easy reach.

It is difficult to see why Hongkong, which supports its hospitals with liberality, should be fifty years behind the times in this respect, and it is to be hoped that the present European members of Council, who, as we are assured by Mr. Winston Churchill, are fully able to represent the British attitude on all social questions, will allow this question to rest in its present unsatisfactory state.

Yours truly,

F. B. L. BOWLER.

VETARZO BRAIN AND NERVE FOOD

The latest discovery of modern times, is without equal in all cases of defective nerve and brain power, whether induced by worry, overwork, dissipation, or other influences. Sleeplessness, palpitation, defective circulation, nervous dyspepsia, tic or neuralgia, low spirits, mental and bodily prostration, loss of confidence, general debility, premature decay or deficiency of the vital force, loss of vitality, nervousness, restlessness that can settle in nothing, irritability of temper, female complaints, hysteria, headache, beating down sensations, wasting diseases, consumption, night sweats, dizziness, high-colored water, etc., are all so many different phases of brain and nerve weakness and exhaustion, the cause of by far the greater portion of the misery, ill-health and dependency by which we are confronted on every hand, that can only be successfully combated by the use of this wonderful and highly scientific preparation. Bracing up the system generally, it gives tone to the exhausted nerves, arrests all wasting, wasting discharges, restores the failing energies, and imparts new life and vigor to those who had so recently seemed played out, used up and valueless.

SPORT

LEAGUE FOOTBALL.

TO-DAY'S MATCHES.

Following are the first and second division matches of the Hongkong Football League scheduled to be played off this afternoon:—

DIVISION I.

H.M.S. "Tiania" v. Kowloon, Navy "A" ground, 4.30 p.m. Referee, Mr. Hollands.

S.C.A. v. Hongkong Police, S.C.A. ground, 4.30 p.m. Referee, Mr. Wills.

DIVISION II.

Staffs v. R.G.A. Reserves, St. Joseph's ground, 4.30 p.m. Referee, Mr. Cheesley.

Kowloon Res. v. H.M.S. "Carlisle," St. Joseph's ground, 3 p.m. Referee, Mr. Masters.

S.C.A. Res. v. Punjabis, S.C.A. ground, 3 p.m. Referee, Mr. Andrews.

Club Res. v. St. Joseph's, Navy "B" ground, 4.30 p.m. Referee, Mr. Sayer.

All the above matches were postponed from last week owing to the "Shield" Competition. The games fixed for to-day in the official fixture list have been postponed until March 12.

In the first division of the League, the "Tiania" should have no excuse for not securing the two points at stake in their match against Kowloon, while the Police and South China should play a good game together. On form, the Police should win.

The points at stake in the second division matches should go to the R.G.A. Res., "Carlisle," South China and St. Joseph's respectively.

UNITED SERVICES LEAGUE.

One match in this league is down for decision at Sookumpoo Valley this afternoon, when the R.G.A. meet the "Hawkins." A good, close game is assured, with the result very much in doubt. Mr. Leaf will referee.

CANTON BILLIARDS.

CUSTOMS CLUB TOURNAMENT.

In the semi-final of the annual handicap tournament for the Billiards Championship of the Canton Customs Club, played on Wednesday, W. Read (-200) defeated A. Hamson (scr.) 250-238.

Read will now meet W.O. Pegge in the final.

In the Bachelors' Handicap tournament of the same Club, W. Brazier beat S. M. Clark in the semi-final, and in the final against C. O. Dregge (-50) on Wednesday, Brazier (-40) was defeated after a very close game.

COMING TO HONGKONG.

H. B. Waring Company.

SUCCESS IN INDIA.

The H. B. Waring Co., who are advertised to open in China during April, are at present playing for the third time in Calcutta, and meeting with even greater success than on their previous visits owing to the fact that they have now a very extensive repertoire in which they are all letter-perfect after such a long tour. On their opening night in Calcutta this time "The Witness For the Defence" was presented, the well-known Anglo-Indian play by A. C. Mason, and in this the Company scored a great success. The Company should meet with a warm reception here owing to the fact that it is rarely a really good English Repertory Company is seen out here.

KINEMA NOTES.

HONGKONG THEATRE.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

The new programme at the Hongkong Theatre to-day incorporates a beautiful Paramount picture, "The Antics of Ann," featuring captivating Anna Pennington. The mysterious Orville will further intrigue the fancy of the audience with many new strange feats. At the 7.15 p.m. performance a sensational picture will be shown. Excellent pictures, several comedies included, are promised for to-morrow's matinee.

The finish of which was very exciting. It was anybody's game up to the last stroke.

TENNIS.

CHINESE INTERPORT.

The Hongkong Chinese Recreation Club has replied to the Straits Chinese Association's cable accepting their suggestion of a Chinese Tennis Interport tournament, and offering to play them at home. A telegram has since been received from Ipoh stating that a Straits Chinese team will make the trip to Hongkong early in April. The telegram further stated that it is hoped that sufficient players to play three doubles and three singles matches, will be able to make the trip. The C.R.C. is making arrangements accordingly.

ENTERTAINMENTS

Interviewed after to-day's sitting of the London Conference, M. Briand referred to reparations. He intimated complete willingness to listen to German counter proposals provided they were reasonable, otherwise she would receive no quarter. If Germany were able to pay well and good, but if it proved that she was unable to pay a mobile twelve per cent. exports tax, the latter would be varied accordingly.
